

After 4 years of respiratory disorders, is Kirsten Egerup able to ride again.

Everybody knows there will be some struggles if the horse spends too much time in the stable. Hay instead of grass, this means that there will be more dust in the food, no matter how much you process the hay. Possibly this was the reason why, Silhuet after 4 years without any diseases started coughing. It increased, and shortly after the veterinarian was called. He could not do anything about it, except to give a little bit of antibiotic, and gave Silhuet some adrenal cortex hormone.

Adrenal Cortex helps on the general well-being but is also a product with some bad side effects, so I was not comfortable with the situation, says Kirsten Egerup from Farre. Because of that I started to look for other and alternative solutions. A veterinarian produced a product called Scanimovit, which is a totally natural product and is based on herbs, was my next experiment. I told about Silhuet's situation, and this veterinarian told me to use 3x2 kg of the product, that was quite expensive, but if it could help the horse was it fair enough. Silhuet started to cough a lot of "slime" up, hereafter the horse was better for a period. But it slowly changed back to the former condition. A "repair dose" had no effect either, sighed Kirsten. She wants to tell that, she only swept the floor when Silhuet was outside, furthermore she sprinkled the floor, and was only fed with grub without dust.

"Back to my veterinarian who tried to cure Silhuet with medication against asthmatic bronchitis. The result was: Nothing. My desperation was huge, what could I do?", says Kirsten. Kirsten was handed a JIMCO Brochure for compact cleaners, that not just reduce bad smells in a room, but also reduce harmful organisms in the air. "For example, should it improve living areas for asthmatics and allergy sufferers. Why not, maybe the solution was right in front of me. I contacted the CEO immediately, and told about the problem, and I was sent a compact cleaner I could try for a period. In the beginning I thought, this will not work out. Silhuet's coughing increased, like if he had a relapse. But even though we went into the pollen season, where he is hypersensitive to birch and grass, then I discovered that I was getting better without any use of medication. Only thanks to the compact cleaner.

"Said in another way it was not like a boom, and Silhuet was cured. It was a slowly but safe process. He came on grass and back in his stable from August, and I have never heard him cough, but only sneeze a few times. Now I can for the first time in a while, ride on him again without he is having these coughing fits like he had before. Silhuet and I can now have a future together. I dare not to believe that he is 100% healthy, but this compact cleaner has for sure made his life worth living again." Says Kirsten Egerup.
